

Shadows

© 2019 C.S. Taber

There are no more shadows
The lights they are bright
You don't need forgiveness
The timing is right
You're searching for answers
The questions will fade
It's time for redemption
I'll play your charade

I know who you are
I know where you've been
You were a star
You're a shadow of then

I hired you for pennies
Gray beard on the street
A homeless musician
With nothing to eat
You had an old Gibson
And notebooks of songs
Before we made Dallas
My rights were all wrongs

I know who you are
I know where you've been
You were a star
You're a shadow of then

I saw you in Nashville
When I was twelve
At the Grand Ole Opry
When you were yourself

There are no more shadows
The lights they are bright
You're playing your music
To crowds every night
But you're starting to stumble
Your voice cracks and fades
By the time we made Phoenix
You'd lost the charade

I know who you are
I know where you've been
You were a star
You're a shadow of then

I know who you are
I know where you've been
You were a star
You're a shadow of then